LONDON, SATURDAY, December 12, 1730. NUMB. XXXV.

The CENSOR of GREAT BRITAIN to the AUTHORS of the REGISTER——Greeting.

——Ludere ſacris
Monſtrum, horrendum eſt.——

GENTLEMEN,

OUT of an honeſt Concern to diſcharge the Office, I have undertaken, I ſent a Letter to the Gentlemen of Grub-ſtreet, to rebuke them for their ludicrous Manner of treating ſerious Matters, particularly on the Account of Mr. Hulman.

All the Penalty I enjoin'd, was to publiſh the Letter; which I deſign'd, in the tendereſt Manner, as the faireſt Excuſe for their fault, and a wholeſom Admonition to the Public.

Inſtead of obeying my Orders; like young Folks, more warm than wary, they take upon them to defend themſelves. [N°47]

I am ſenſible how hard a Thing it is for young People to reconcile themſelves to acknowledge a Fault; and therefore ſhall not immediately proceed to the laſt Extremities with them: ——But, as their Apology is not good [they expect, forſooth, when their Obſervations are literally abſurd, that People ſhould ſtrain hard to make ſomething of them in Allegory: and this is all they have to ſay for themſelves] as this their Apology, I ſay, is what I can by no Means approve of; I muſt appeal to the World, by your Means, whether, by ſuppreſſing my Admonition, they have not been partial to themſelves, and injurious to the Public.——It is as follows.

The CENSOR of GREAT BRITAIN to the GENTLEMEN of GRUB-STREET, Greeting.

HAVING obſerv'd a good deal of Wit and Judgment in your Compoſitions; I judge you worthy of Advice; and I am the more diſpos'd to give it you; becauſe, as you ſeem to value yourſelves for your Impartiality, you will not ſtifle a Rebuke which may be of Uſe to the Public.

What I have to offer, at preſent, is this: be very WARY when you have a great Mind to be WITTY. You are young Folks; and, when a Conceit flaſhes on the Imagination, you are apt to be dazzled, and then, 'tis ten to one but you blunder. To prevent this, you are to conſult your Reaſon [Scribendi recte SAPERE eſt & principium & fons. Hor.] for want of due Attention to which, we find ſome Thoughts admir'd by almoſt all the World; though, upon ſeverer Examination, it will appear, that they have not the leaſt Title to common Senſe. What would you think of a Piece of Wit, that repreſents the GODS, as Siding with the unjuſt; that ſets a good Man in the oppoſite Intereſt; and that raiſes him above the GODS on that Account? You would certainly look upon it, as a confounded Huddle of Inconſiſtencies and impious Abſurdities; and yet, that is the beſt, that can be ſaid for the Compliment made to CATO by a celebrated Member of yours; notwithſtanding the univerſal Applauſe, with which it has been receiv'd for above 1660 Years. I need not tell you that the Gentleman I mean is young LUCAN, the Glory of your Society: And I dare ſay you are already anatomizing his Victrix cauſa DEIS placuit, ſed victa CATONI.

Now, you muſt know, I think never the worſe of the Man, for ſuch an Overſight [Ubi plura nitent in Carmine; non ego paucis offendar Maculis, quas aut incuria fudit, aut humana parum cavit Natura] and therefore you will excuſe me; if, to illuſtrate my Maxim, that Reaſon is the Teſt of Wit; I give your Brother Jeffery a Reprimand for an Obſervation he was pleas'd to drop, in your Journal, Numb. 46. which is as follows: "Mr. Hulman, an eminent diſſenting "Miniſter of Halſted in Eſſex, who has been many Years "making Collections, in Order to write a Hiſtory of that "Country; went to dine with a Friend laſt Week, about "three Miles from his own Houſe; and was very chearful "and eaſy, and ſeemingly in a good State of Health: But, "going home, went into a Church-Porch, and was there "found dead. That Gentleman, at laſt, was ſo far reconciled "to the Church, as to make his Exit in her Porch; I hope all "of them will in Time, be reconciled, in the ſame Manner."

Now, Gentlemen, do but conſider a little this Fluriſh; and I dare ſay you will find ſome Flaws in it.——Mr. Hulman was at laſt reconciled to the Church. It does not appear that he ever fell-out with it, or had any ill Will to it. But, "He was a Diſſenter," you will ſay: That is, he was not entirely of the ſame Opinion with thoſe Gentlemen, who drew up the Articles, Canons, Prayers, &c. that are generally received in the Church of England. Does it therefore follow (take the Word, Church, in what Senſe you will) that he diſlik'd the Main of the Conſtitution? or that he hated the Members? or that he would have demoliſh'd the Walls? By no means. It is poſſible Mr. Quidnunc may diſſent from her Majeſty in the Affair of Mr. Duck, &c. and yet, I find, he reverences her as poſſeſs'd of all the Accompliſhments and Virtues that are aſcrib'd to Henry the VI'th's Queen, and I could name him a great many good Church-men, who have been in great Pain for the Church; though, at the ſame Time, they have ſhown, that they differ from it more than moſt of the warmeſt Diſſenters.——Again, He was ſo far reconcil'd to the Church, as to make his Exit in her Porch. Her Porch! the Church of England's Porch! What ſhould a body ſay? With what Allowances can One caſt a Gleam of Senſe on this Expreſſion? Suppoſe we read it thus: He was ſo far reconciled to the Church, as to make his Exit in a Church-Porch. I beſeech you, granting that a Diſſenter was an Enemy to the Church (which I do not allow) and that he choſe to die in a Church-Porch (which in this Caſe is not probable) Is his dying in a Church-Porch any Token of his Reconciliation to the Church?——But, theſe Abſurdities are but Trifles to the Spirit he has ſhown. To be ſo quaintly merry on ſuch an Occaſion (eſpecially as the Man bore a good Character in the Account he burleſques) is ſomething inhuman [for my Part, I cannot reflect on the hanging of a Dog with ſuch a thoughtleſs Gayety; and I ſhould think a Child ought to be whipt, that could make a Jeſt of the laſt Agonies of a Bird] but the Wiſh, that concludes the Obſervation, is what I am loth to give a Name to.

I hope, ſays he, all of them [or, to ſpeak grammatically, I hope all the diſſenting Miniſters] will, in Time, be reconcil'd in the ſame Manner: Which, to ſoften the Severity of it as much as poſſible, is as much as to ſay: "I wiſh all the "diſſenting Miniſters may periſh ſuddenly; and in ſuch a "Manner, as may be deem'd the Judgment of God upon "them for their Enmity to the Church."

I preſume Mr. Quidnunc is very young: but I hope he has left the Univerſity; if ſo, it is poſſible he may be humaniz'd in your Society. I leave him to your Correction, and am,

Sir, Your faithful Monitor,

THE CENSOR.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

SINCE your late juvenile Amuſement, entitled, the PEDLAR, met with a very favourable Reception from many of my Acquaintance, and I doubt not, from ſeveral of your good natur'd Readers, eſpecially ſuch Parents, who have Olive-Branches round their Tables, on whoſe future Conduct and Succeſs in the World their Happineſs very much depends; and ſince you have aſſur'd the Public, that you will thankfully accept of any youthful Exerciſes of the like Nature, if of equal Merit; I have ventur'd to ſend you enclos'd a Poetical Eſſay on the Force of Education, compos'd by my eldeſt Son; who (tho' but juſt turn'd of Fifteen, if I am not too much blinded by paternal Fondneſs) may lay ſome Claim to your future Favours. I muſt own, I ſhall be proud to ſee my Boy's little Labours in Print, and glad to ſave him the Trouble, as well as Loſs of Time in tranſcribing Copies for his Friends. If therefore his firſt Attempt ſhall meet with your Approbation, and you ſhall think proper to introduce it into the World, I beg of you to reſerve a Quire for my Uſe, and the Lad on Saturday Morning ſhall wait on you, thank you for your Indulgence, and in a handſome Manner diſcharge the Obligation. I am in great Hopes that your Encouragement this Way, may be of greater Service and Importance to the Public, than moſt may be aware of, and in Time may ſtir up our Britiſh Youth to a laudable Emulation, induce them to diſdain a careleſs and remiſs Performance of their School-Exerciſes, and make them ſtudious, even in their Minority, to excel. If this ſhould be the happy Conſequence of your Indulgence tow'rds them, almoſt every Parent will in Gratitude encourage you; and I know of no future, more artful Method, to make your Paper the favourite Amuſement of the Town. I am ſorry to ſee you at preſent engag'd in a Paper-War with a Set of Gentlemen, whoſe original Deſign is unnerous and ill-natur'd; and whoſe profeſs'd Buſineſs is Calumny and Detraction. But I hope the Storm will ſoon blow over; that your Society will ſhow them the beſt Reſentment, which is Diſdain; and, like the Moon, ſhine on, regardleſs of the Village Curs, that ſnarl and yelp to ſee her riſe. I ſhall not however preſume to direct arbitrarily in this Caſe, and ſhall ſubmit to their ſuperior Judgment. 'Tis the Task of a Stoick, I muſt confeſs, to be ſilent on ſuch flagrant Provocations. If therefore they ſhall think proper to keep up in Arms, I hope they will never tranſgreſs the Bounds of Decency and good Manners; but induſtriouſly avoid giving Billingſgate Language in return of worſe, if poſſible, and endeavour to be Smart, without Malice or ill Nature. I heartily wiſh your Society good Succeſs, and ſhall with Pleaſure be

The SCHOOLS: A POEM, on the Force of Education.

BY Nature Savage, till inſtructive Art
Faſhions his Mind, and cultivates his Heart;
Thro' Vice and Errors the impetuous Youth
Roams uncontroul'd, and ſhuns the Paths of Truth.
Unruly Appetites his Virtue ſway,
His Will commands, and Paſſions lead the Way.
But when the Schools have lent their ſocial Aid,
And from his Brain diſpell'd the native Shade,
His tender Front the dawning Genius rears,
And ſhining Virtue in her Bloom appears.
So on his Furrow ſtands the Lab'ring Swain,
And to the Glebe commits the pregnant Grain;
Lodg'd in the Earth an Embryo-Harveſt lies,
Till the Sun's genial Influence bids it riſe:
Then joyous he ſurveys his fruitful Ground,
With plenteous Crops, and golden Honours crown'd.
The Child, as ſoon as he can liſp his Name,
Is ſtrait committed to the careful Dame;
Till by revolving Years his Mind is wrought
To deeper Knowledge, and maturer Thought:
SHE to his Hand the Letter'd Horn applies,
And with the Feſcue guides his wand'ring Eyes.
The Youth, whoſe Breaſt the warlike God inſpires,
And with a gen'rous Thirſt of Glory fires,
Within the Liſts a bloodleſs Combate wage,
With ſeeming Hatred, and diſſembled Rage:
Illuſtrious Youth! whom martial Sports delight!
Who when Britannia's Safety calls to fight,
Shall crown her Battles, and defend her Right.
Some follow Nature in her gloomy Maze,
And trace the Goddeſs thro' unbeaten Ways:
A ſtudious Race! whoſe boundleſs Proſpects riſe
High o'er the Clouds, and pierce the immoſt Skies:
They meaſure Earth through all her diſtant Lands,
They tell the Stars and count the yellow Sands.
Here, Monſieur, with a fluent Tongue, expounds
Gallia's ſoft Idioms, and harmonious Sounds;
Whilſt uſeful Boyer aids the Youth's Deſign,
And, Feſteau's pregnant Rules inſpire his Mind.
Here, in throng'd Schools the ſtern Grammarians teach
The Beauties and Proprieties of Speech:
To Love of Arts they moulds unpractis'd Youth,
And form their tender Years to ſpotleſs Truth.
Here too, BRITANNIA's unexperienc'd Fair
To the frequented Dancing-School repair:
Each ſhining Nymph improves her pretty Face,
With winning Features, and becoming Grace:
To the ſoft Lute or Fiddle's ſprightly Sound,
They ſhift alternate Feet, and preſs the Ground.
Here, that nice Art the ſtudious Pupils try,
Of painting Words, and ſpeaking to the Eye;
Which, in the various Shapes of Figures wrought,
Give Colour and a Body to a Thought.
Thrice happy Mortal! on whoſe earthly Breaſt,
The Likeneſs of his Maker is impreſs'd!
Thrice happy Mortal! whoſe enlighten'd Mind
To uſeful Arts and Wiſdom is inclin'd!
Thro' tedious Schools we hunt the lovely Maid,
And by the Prize confeſs our Toil o'er paid:
Of Things the ſecret Cauſes we explore,
From whence the Sun recruits his golden Store:
What Period bounds each rowling Orb of Light:
Where new fledg'd Whirlwinds try their noiſy Flight:
Where Tempeſts ſleep, and Infant-Thunder Springs:
Why nimble Lightning mounts on golden Wings:
What binds the Water in an Icy Chain:
And from what Source proceeds the pearly Rain:
The Soul forgets her groſs Reſtraint of Clay,
And eager after Knowledge, wings her Way.

THURSDAY, December 10.

One Night laſt Week, a Gentleman at a Gaming Table won upwards of 600*l.* and fearing the fickle Jilt, Fortune, might change the Scene of his Affairs, left off; and coming to the Smyrna-Coffee-Houſe, in Pall-Mall, after a ſhort ſtay, call'd a Chair to carry him to his Lodgings, but being fearful of the Evening Collectors, put 200 Guineas in a Bag with the Bank Notes, &c. which he had receiv'd, under the Seat of the Chair, and when he came home forgot to take them out again. The next Morning he went to the ſame Coffee-Houſe, where he found the ſame Chair-Men plying as uſual, and ask'd them whether they did not carry him home the Night before. They anſwer'd they did; and on opening the Chair, he found, to his great Conſolation, all his Money and Notes as he had left them.

Laſt Week, a Tobacco-Cutter in White-Croſs-Street, having ſome Words with his Wife, told her (to be reveng'd on her) he would hang himſelf, and was as good as his Word.

We hear the Parliament will ſit to do Buſineſs the next Month.

Several People both in Town and Country ſtill receive threatning Letters, but the particular Perſons being very numerous, and the Contents of the Letters much the ſame as we have already mentioned, we think it ſuperfluous to mention them.

There have been ſeveral Perſons apprehended about London and Middleſex on Suſpicion of ſending Letters, threatening his Majeſty's Subjects, &c. but none convicted.

On Friday laſt the Seſſions began at the Old-Bailey, and continued till laſt Night. Prefs. Capt. Clower is appointed Capt. of the Company of Invalids late commanded by Lieut. Col. Symonds, decea's'd.——We are told from Ireland, that on the 23d of the last Month, Mr. *Wm. He was a Subaltern Officer when the Duke of Marlborough was, and in the same Regiment.——Brigadier Newton, who was Col. of a Reg. at Gibraltar, is lately dead.——The Rev. Dr. Symonds, Dean of Battle in Suffex, a Benefice of particular Privileges, is lately dead, after having enjoy'd it 42 Years. That, and the Living of Emburst annex'd, which makes it a good Deanery, are in the Gift of Sir Tho. Webster, Bart. of Copthall in Essex.——Yesterday, Mr. Harris, a Watchmaker, fell from the Top of a House in Shoe-Lane, as he was trapping Pidgeons; by the Fall he broke his Scull, and died immediately.

FRIDAY, December 11.

His Majesty has been pleased to order a Patent to pass the proper Seals, for the better and more effectual extracting (by certain Ingredients prepared for that Purpose) of Silver from Lead Ore, far beyond the method now in Use.

Last Night the King and Queen, his R. The Embassador from the Dey of Algiers is to be allowed by his Majesty 100*l. per* Month, for his Table and other Expences during his Stay here.

Rob. &c. On Wednesday last Hugh Catherell, Hugh Davis, and W. Abell, late Collectors of the Westm. Turn-pike, were upon full Evidence convicted before the Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex, at a special Sessions held at the Vestry-Room of St. Margarets, Westm. upon the Complaint of Nath. Blackerby, Alex. Chocke, and J. Lawton, Esqs; in behalf of themselves and the rest of the Trustees of the said Turn-pike, for notorious Frauds and Concealments in the Execution of their Offices, as Collectors of that Turn-pike, for a considerable Time past, amounting to 5 or 600*l.* a Year; and were thereupon committed to Newgate, without Bail or Mainprize, until they should render a full and true Account, according to the Direction of the Act of Parl. in that Behalf.——On Monday Night last some Persons broke into Mr. Newcomb's Boarding-School at Hackney, and carried away a large Quantity of Linnen. The Centinel was seized, and carried before Sir Tho. Jones in Bofwell-Court, near Carey-Street, who committed him to Newgate.——The same Day Sir John Gonson, Justice Railton, and several other Justices of the Peace, met at Covent-Garden Vestry, and examined several reputed Thieves and Pickpockets, apprehended the Night before; and three of the most notorious of them, viz. Davy Brown, Eliz. Kane, al. Oxford Bess, and Sarah Clemence were committed to Tothill-Fields Bridewell to hard Labour.——One Shaw was also committed to the Gate-house, for keeping a disorderly Brandy-shop and Night-house in Drury-Lane.——The same Day about two o'Clock in the Morn. the Countess Dowager of Dysart's House in Grosvenor-Street was broke open by three Robbers, who carried off most of the Pewter in the Kitchin; but being at last over-heard by the Porter, he fired a Blunderbuss amongst them; and at Day-Light some Blood was found sprinkled in the Street, but they all escap'd.

Death. On Friday last died Miss Fleet, Daughter to——Fleet, of Putney, in the County of Surrey, Esq; and last Night she was carried from her Father's House in great Funeral Pomp, and interred at Battersea, in the said County. Her Sister died about six Months ago, and left her 10,000*l.* which now devolves on her Brother.

Shipping. They write from Charles Town in South Carolina, Aug. 29. That the 27th present we had a violent Hurricane of Wind, in which several Ships in our Harbour were very much damaged. The Wind had blown very fresh 36 Hours from the Eastward, and brought in the Sea so much, that the Low Water was, as high as at High Water in Spring Tides. The Wind then blowing violent at E. N. E. we had dreadful Apprehensions of the Consequences the ensuing Flood might be attended with, the Town and adjacent Country being in great Danger of being overflowed, and terrible Destruction seem'd near at Hand; but it pleased God, that the Wind coming Southerly, its Violence abated, and as suddenly the Water subsided, and the Stream ran strongly out to the Sea for several Hours of the Flood.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

I Cannot forbear blushing for those artless Wits, the GRUBS, on Account of their inveterate, tho' impotent Invectives against their new-created Incendiary, and Dutch Translator. What Reader of common Sense, and common Humanity can peruse such disingenuous Riff-raff, as they have impos'd on the Publick, from their Pegasus, on Thursday last, with any tolerable Patience, without Distaste, without Abhorrence? Can there be a plainer Demonstration of their confirm'd Obstinacy, as well as Stupidity, than their insipid Repetition of the same Jest, if it can be call'd one, after so gentle a Reprehension for their last Billingsgate Language, and personal Reflections. I beg Mr. Bavius's Pardon for imagining him to be guilty of this new Attempt to stab the Reputation of my innocent, and much injur'd Friend: I am now fully convinc'd, that he is indebted to Mr. Poppey for the Affront; as no one but he, could be the Author of such a sleepy-headed Performance. As his teeming Brain has, for near a Month, been lab'ring under this prodigious Burden; the Town might very reasonably have expected some Satyrical Monster; but alas! at last Vox est, & præterea Nihil. From henceforward I shall look down on the whole Grubean Society with an Eye of Pity and Disdain; and shall only beg of you to insert the following short Fable, translated from my old Friend Phædrus, to shew my just Resentment, and express the contemptible Idea all Men, who have the least Regard for Decency and good Manners, must entertain of their dull, malicious, and ill-natur'd Animadversions. I am, Sir, Your constant Reader,

FOREIGN NEWS.

Arrived Mails.——Friday and Saturday; those due from Holland and France.——Thursday; those due from Holland and France.

HAGUE, Dec. 12. N. S. Some will have it, that a War is unavoidable, because Men are hard at work in the Arsenal in Delft, which is the general Magazine of this Country, in casting great Guns, while others are employ'd in making Carriages for mounting them; and whatever else is necessary in the Train of Artillery, is getting ready. The like is doing at the Magazine of Powder, situate above a Quarter of a League from Delft; so that let Things turn out rough or smooth, it is certain there has not been such an Apparatus to War in the seven Provinces since the Peace of Utrecht.

Extract of a Private Letter from Vienna.

We have Advice from Berlin, that Count Seckendorff acts there as Prime Minister to the King of Prussia, which will not hinder his being charged with the Affairs of his Imperial Majesty. Hence, perhaps, the present Coldness between the King of Poland and his Prussian Majesty, who were the other Day such cordial Friends: But be the Cause what it will, the King of Prussia has certainly so little Regard for his dear Friend, as to order the Merchandizes imported into his Country from Saxony to pay the old Duties, notwithstanding the new Tariff lately made between those two Princes, for lessening the Duties both of Import and Export. This Coldness serves however to unite his Prussian Majesty more closely with the Emperor; and accordingly these last have (if our Information be true) made an Alliance with the Czarina of Muscovy, to be prepared against the Enterprizes of the Allies of Seville in the Empire, if they should engage the King of Poland in their Scheme, as we are apprehensive they will. This Triple Alliance, framed between this Court and that of Berlin, is sent to Moscow, to be sign'd by the Counts of Osterman, Wratislau, and Mardefeldt. It is Defensive, and stipulates the respective Quotas to form an Army of 100,000 Men in the Empire, in case of need. By Favour of this Alliance, the Emperor will be enabled to strengthen himself yet more in Italy, instead of withdrawing Troops from that Country.

It is certain, that the 30,000 Muscovites are ready to enter Hungary, by the Way of the Ukraine and Podolia. According to the Conventions made between the two Courts, the Emperor is to pay those Troops, and the Hungarians are to find them nothing but Bread; but notwithstanding they are to make Money circulate in that Kingdom, the People do not like to hear of their new Guests; and as little does this Court regard their Murmuring.

Paris, Dec. 4. N. S. Private Letters from Constantinople advise, that the new Grand Seignior had concluded a Peace with the King of Persia; but that to prevent a new Insurrection, his Highness had thought fit to keep the Army that served in the late War, in the Frontier Towns, till the Affairs of the Ottoman Empire are entirely settled.
